RISK FACTORS

The following considerations, which summarize some, but not all, of the risks of investing in the Fund should be carefully evaluated before making an investment in the Fund. The information set forth under "Risk Factors" in the Fund's Confidential Memorandum must be reviewed in its entirety prior to investing in the Fund. An investment in the Fund will involve significant risks, including the loss of the entire investment. The interests in the Fund will be illiquid, as there is no secondary market for interests in the Fund and none is expected to develop.

Dependence on Sculptor. The success of the Fund is dependent upon the ability of Sculptor to manage the Fund and effectively implement the Fund's investment program. Sculptor's governing documents do not permit the limited partners to participate in the management and affairs of Sculptor or the Fund. If Sculptor, the Fund or any other funds managed by Sculptor were to incur substantial losses in the case of other funds, or were subject to an unusually high level of redemptions or withdrawals, the revenues of Sculptor may decline substantially. Such losses and/or redemptions/withdrawals may impair Sculptor's ability to provide the necessary level of service to Sculptor and the Fund as it has in the past and continue operations. The loss of the services of Sculptor could have a material adverse effect on Sculptor and the limited partners' investments therein.

Liquidity of Investments. The Fund invests in securities which are subject to legal or other restrictions on transfer or for which no liquid market exists. The market prices, if any, for such securities tend to be volatile and the Fund may not be able to sell them when it desires to do so or to realize what it perceives to be their fair value in the event of a sale. The sale of restricted and illiquid securities often requires more time and results in higher brokerage charges or dealer discounts and other selling expenses than does the sale of securities eligible for trading on national securities exchanges or in the OTC markets. Restricted securities may sell at a price lower than similar securities that are not subject to restrictions on resale.

Risks of Equity Investment Strategies. Some of the Fund's strategies may result in high portfolio turnover and, consequently, greater transaction costs. Depending upon the investment strategies employed and market conditions, the Fund may be adversely affected by unforeseen events involving such matters as changes in interest rates or the credit status of an issuer, forced redemptions of securities or acquisition proposals, break-up of planned mergers, unexpected changes in relative value, short squeezes, inability to short stock or changes in tax treatment. There can be no assurance that Sculptor will be able to locate investment opportunities or exploit pricing discrepancies.

General Credit Risk. The issuers of debt instruments may face significant ongoing uncertainties and exposure to adverse conditions that may undermine the issuer's ability to make timely payment of interest and principal. In addition, major economic downturns and financial market swings have adversely affected, and could in the future adversely affect, the ability of some of the issuers of such instruments to repay principal and pay interest thereon and may increase the incidence of default for such instruments.

Risks Associated with the Fund's Distressed Investment Strategies. The success of the Fund's investment activities will depend to an extent on Sculptor's ability to identify and benefit from inefficiencies in the high-yield and distressed debt securities markets. These opportunities involve uncertainty. No assurance can be given that Sculptor will be able to locate investment opportunities or to correctly take advantage of inefficiencies in the markets. A reduction in inefficiencies that provide opportunities, for example, for covenant arbitrage or capital structure arbitrage will reduce the scope for the Fund's investment strategies. In the event that the perceived mispricings underlying the Fund's positions were to fail to converge toward, or were to diverge further from, relationships expected by Sculptor, the Fund may incur a loss. Further, the investments utilized in implementing such strategies will include derivatives, such as futures and options, which are themselves inherently volatile in the context of specific market movements.

Distressed Investment Risk. The Fund may invest, directly or indirectly, in securities of U.S. and non-U.S. issuers in weak financial condition, experiencing poor operating results, having substantial capital needs or negative net worth, facing special competitive or product obsolescence problems, or that are involved in bankruptcy or reorganization proceedings. Investments of this type may involve substantial financial and business risks that can result in substantial, or at times even total, losses. Among the risks inherent in investments in troubled entities is the fact that it frequently may be difficult to obtain information as to the true condition of such issuers. Such investments also may be adversely affected by laws relating to, among other things, fraudulent transfers and other voidable transfers or payments, lender liability and the bankruptcy court's power to disallow, reduce, subordinate or disenfranchise particular claims.

Derivative Instruments. Certain swaps, options and other derivative instruments may be subject to various types of risks, including market risk, liquidity risk, credit risk, legal risk and operations risk. The regulatory and tax environment for derivative instruments in which the Fund may participate is evolving, and changes in the regulation or taxation of such instruments may have a material adverse effect on the Fund.

General Economic and Market Conditions. The success of the Fund's activities will be affected by general economic and market conditions, such as interest rates, availability of credit, credit defaults, inflation rates, economic uncertainty, changes in laws (including laws relating to taxation of the Fund's investments), trade barriers, currency exchange controls, and national and international political circumstances (including wars, terrorist acts or security operations). These factors may affect the level and volatility of the prices and the liquidity of the Fund's investments. Volatility or illiquidity could impair the Fund's profitability or result in losses. The Fund may maintain substantial trading positions that can be adversely affected by the level of volatility in the financial markets.

Non-U.S. Securities. Investments in securities of non-U.S. issuers (including non-U.S. governments) and securities denominated or whose prices are quoted in non-U.S. currencies pose, to the extent not hedged, currency exchange risks (including blockage, devaluation and non-exchangeability) as well as a range of other potential risks which could include, expropriation, confiscatory taxation, imposition of withholding or other taxes on dividends, interest, capital gains, other income or gross sale or disposition proceeds, limitations on the removal of funds or other assets of the Fund, political or social instability or diplomatic developments that could affect investments in those countries.

Investment and Due Diligence Process. Before making investments, Sculptor will conduct due diligence based on the facts and circumstances applicable to each investment. When conducting due diligence, Sculptor may be required to evaluate important and complex business, financial, tax, accounting and legal issues. When conducting due diligence and making an assessment regarding an investment, Sculptor will rely on the resources reasonably available to it, which in some circumstances, whether or not known to Sculptor at the time, may not be sufficient, accurate, complete or reliable. Due diligence may not reveal or highlight matters that could have a material adverse effect on the value of an investment.

Cautionary Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements
Certain information contained in this herein constitutes "forward-looking statements" that can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology such as "may," "will," "should," "expect," "anticipate," "target," "project," "estimate," "intend," "continue," or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Due to various risks and uncertainties, actual events or results or the actual performance of any Firm investment may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking statements.

Sculptor Master Fund, Ltd. ("Sculptor Master Fund" or the "Fund") commenced on January 1, 1998, adhering to the Firm's pre-existing broad multi-strategy investment mandate ("Multi-Strategy"). For a prior period (since the Firm's inception on April 1, 1994 through December 31, 1997), the Firm managed other accounts in a substantially similar manner to the management of the Fund, and in accordance with the Firm's same Multi-Strategy mandate that was not subject to portfolio investment restrictions or other factors that limited the investment discretion of the Firm (the "Multi-Strategy Accounts"). The presentation of historical Fund performance information in this Report also includes the performance of the Multi-Strategy Accounts (which is presented in this Report as the "Sculptor Multi-Strategy Composite" or the "Multi-Strategy Composite"). Sculptor Capital believes that the inclusion of the historical performance of the Multi-Strategy Accounts provides the recipient with a more complete representation of the Firm's historical Multi-Strategy performance. Please refer to endnote 1 for the definition of the Multi-Strategy Composite.

[1] The composite performance information presented herein excludes the returns of investments that Sculptor Capital, as investment manager of Sculptor Master Fund, determines lack a readily ascertainable fair value, are illiquid or otherwise should be held until the resolution of a special event or circumstance ("Special Investments") (collectively, the "Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite"). Special Investments in Sculptor Master Fund are held by a small percentage of assets under management in the fund and composite. Sculptor believes that the exclusion of the returns attributable to Specials Investments provides the recipient with a more accurate representation of the Sculptor Master Fund's current investment mandate; therefore, effective May 1, 2020 Sculptor made the decision to present the historical performance of Sculptor Master Fund (i.e., including the performance of the Sculptor Multi-Strategy Composite, as defined below) in this manner. Sculptor Master Fund's current monthly and year-to-date net return estimates inclusive of the returns of Special Investments are detailed in the endnotes below and the historical composite performance of the Sculptor Master Fund Composite (i.e., inclusive of the returns of Special Investments) will be made available upon request.

The Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite is a composite of composites and is constructed as follows: (i) for the period from April 1, 1994 through December 31, 1997, the Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite includes the performance of the Sculptor Multi-Strategy Composite, which is defined as the composite performance of all accounts that were managed in accordance with the Firm's broad multi-strategy mandate that were not subject to portfolio investment restrictions or other factors that limited the investment discretion of the Firm since its inception on April 1, 1994 (i.e., the Multi-Strategy Accounts). The investment mandate of these Multi-Strategy Accounts did not include Special Investments over this time period; (ii) for the current month, as well as performance for the period from January 1, 1998 (i.e., the inception of Sculptor Master Fund, which included Special Investments in its investment mandate) through December 31, 2006, the Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite includes the Fund's estimated performance which is calculated using the total return net of all fees and expenses of all such accounts, excluding the total return of Special Investments, and also excluding incentive allocation and management fees attributable to Special Investments; and, (iii) for the period from January 1, 2007 through present (except for the current month's estimated performance, as described above), the Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite includes the Fund's final returns, which consist of the composite performance of the accounts of those investors who do not participate in Special Investments in the feeder funds that comprise Sculptor Master Fund (the "Feeder Funds").

For the period from April 1, 1994 through December 31, 1997, stated returns are gross of certain overhead expenses that were reimbursed by these Multi-Strategy Accounts. Such reimbursement arrangements were terminated at the inception of Sculptor Master Fund on January 1, 1998. The size of the accounts comprising the Sculptor Multi-Strategy Composite during the time period shown vary materially. Such differences impacted our investment decisions and the diversity of the investment strategies we followed. Furthermore, the composition of the investment strategies we follow are subject to the Firm's discretion and varied materially since inception and are expected to vary materially in the future. Performance is presented on a total return basis, is net of all fees and expenses of such Feeder Funds and Sculptor Master Fund and includes the reinvestment of all dividends and income.

The methodology used to construct the Sculptor Master Fund Composite is different from the Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite described above. The Sculptor Master Fund Composite is calculated using the total return of all Feeder Funds. The Sculptor Master Fund Composite is net of all fees and expenses of such Feeder Funds and Sculptor Master Fund (except incentive compensation on unrealized gains attributable to Special Investments that could reduce returns in these investments at the time of realization) and the returns of each Feeder Fund include the reinvestment of all dividends and income. The Sculptor Master Fund Composite also includes realized and unrealized gains and losses attributable to Special Investments and initial public offering investments that are not allocated to all investors in the Feeder Funds.

Please note that for a variety of factors, your actual return is likely to differ from the Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite return for the fund(s) referenced in this document. These factors include, without limitation, (i) your specific management fee, (ii) whether or not you opted to participate in initial public offering investments (IPOs), (iii) whether or not you chose to participate in the profit and loss attributable to Special Investments, (iv) the initial date and subsequent time period that you were invested in a Feeder Fund (which, if you elected to participate in the profit and loss attributable to Special Investments, determines which Special Investments you may have participated in, among other things), (v) whether the Feeder Fund through which you invest makes direct investments, (vi) any other investment restrictions applicable to the Feeder Fund through which you invested, (vii) any other investment restrictions applicable to your tranche interest or share class, (viii) whether or not the terms of your share class provide for a hurdle before the incentive allocation can be crystallized; and, (ix) regulatory, tax or structuring considerations applicable to any particular investment or strategy. The Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite excludes realized and unrealized gains and losses attributable to currency hedging ("Currency Feeder F/X Hedging") specific to investors in Feeder Fund tranches denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar ("Non-USD Tranches") starting August 2012 (the inception of the Non-USD Tranches). An investor in a Non-USD Tranche may experience materially different returns, as there can be no assurance that Currency Feeder F/X Hedging will eliminate all or any of the currency risk associated with investing in a Non-USD Tranche. The Ex-Specials Multi-Strategy Composite is not available for direct investment.

Sculptor Master Fund implements a global multi-strategy investment program that provides Sculptor significant discretion to vary sector, geographic and strategy exposures on an ongoing basis. Accordingly, portfolio composition varies from period to period and prospective investors should not assume that exposures for any period are indicative of exposures for any other period. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. There can be no assurance that Sculptor Master Fund will achieve its performance objectives or avoid substantial losses. A decision to invest in a Feeder Fund of the Sculptor Master Fund should not be based on or influenced by this performance presentation. Please refer to the Offering Memoranda for the Feeder Funds for a description of the various strategies in which Sculptor Master Fund may invest. Historical capital attribution for Sculptor Master Fund is available from Sculptor upon request. Performance for any partial year represents actual total returns for such partial year and is not annualized. Numbers are subject to rounding.

For the same period, the current monthly net return and year-to-date net return estimates for the performance of the Sculptor Master Fund 2.0% Management Fee Composite are 1.75% and 3.80%, respectively. Please refer to endnote 25 below for additional information on the Sculptor Master Fund 2.0% Management Fee Composite.

Inclusive of the profit and loss attributable to Special Investments in Sculptor Master Fund, the current monthly net return and year-to-date net return estimates for the performance of the Sculptor Master Fund are 1.74% and 3.72%, respectively. Inclusive of the profit and loss attributable to Special Investments in the Sculptor Master Fund 2.0% Management Fee Composite, the current monthly net return and year-to-date net return estimates for the performance of the Master Fund 2.0% Composite are 1.81% and 3.86%, respectively. These net returns inclusive of Special Investments are presented on a total return basis, net of all fees and expenses (except incentive income on unrealized gains attributable to Special Investments that could reduce returns on such Special Investments at the time of realization) and includes the reinvestment of all dividends and other income.

[2] Assets Under Management is as of March 1, 2024 and includes the market value of Special Investments.

[3] Volatility is a statistical measure of standard deviation that measures the fluctuation of the monthly rates of return against the average return. Effective December 1, 2023, Sculptor made the decision to remove the trailing 5-year volatility data from the Report. Going forward, the 5-year data will be made available upon request.

[4] This comparison shows the returns of the MSCI World Gross Local Index (TR) (GDDLWI Index) ("MSCI World Gross Local Index"), the HFRI Fund Weighted Composite Index (HFRIFWI Index) and the Balanced US 60/40 Index (VBINX US Equity) (the "Broader Market Indices") against the Multi-Strategy Composite. This comparison is intended solely for illustrative purposes to show a historical comparison of the Master Fund Composite to the broader markets, as represented by the Broader Market Indices, and should not be considered as an indication of how Sculptor Master Fund or the Feeder Funds will perform relative to the Broader Market Indices in the future. The Broader Market Indices are not a performance benchmark of Sculptor Master Fund or the Feeder Funds. Neither Sculptor Master Fund nor the Feeder Funds are managed to correlate in any way with the returns or composition of the Broader Market Indices. You should not assume that there is any material overlap between the securities underlying the Master Fund Composite and those that comprise the Broader Market Indices. The MSCI World Gross Local Index is a free float-adjusted market capitalization weighted index that is designed to measure the equity market performance of developed markets. Returns of the MSCI World Gross Local Index have not been reduced by fees and expenses associated with investing in securities and include the reinvestment of dividends. The HFRI Fund Weighted Composite Index is a global, equal-weighted index of over 2,000 single-manager funds that report to HFR Database. Constituent funds report monthly net of all fees performance in US Dollar and have a minimum of $50 Million under management or a twelve (12) month track record of active performance. The HFRI Fund Weighted Composite Index does not include Funds of Hedge Funds. The Balanced US 60/40 Index is a Vanguard Fund weighted index that invests roughly 60% in stocks and 40% in bonds by tracking the performance of the CRSP U.S. Total Market Index and Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Float Adjusted Index. Source: Bloomberg.

[5] Strategy Gross Performance represents the portion of estimated gross Fund performance that is attributable to the relevant strategy. Performance represents a composite of the estimated performance of all feeder funds that comprise the Fund. Performance includes the reinvestment of all dividends and income and also includes realized and unrealized gains and losses attributable to "new issues," which are not part of the investment program for all tranches of interests/shares in the feeder funds. Performance excludes all realized and unrealized gains and losses attributable to Special Investments. Tranches that do participate in Special Investments or that do not participate in "new issues" may experience materially different returns. Gross performance numbers are shown for the limited purpose of providing transparency for the relevant period and should be read in conjunction with the Fund's net performance information presented under "Fund Net Performance and Volatility". Actual performance of the Fund or of any investor's account will vary from the gross performance shown because: (i) actual performance is net of management fees and incentive compensation; (ii) the gross performance is a composite of the performance of all feeder funds that comprise the Fund; and (iii) performance of the Fund is calculated on a total return basis.

[6] Month-to-date (MTD) Gross Attribution is equal to the Gross Performance that is attributable to the relevant strategy for the month divided by the Fund NAV. "Fund NAV" represents the total NAV of all feeder funds that comprise Fund, excluding the value of Special Investments. The total Fund quarter-to-date (QTD) and year-to-date (YTD) gross performance is compounded monthly and is not annualized for partial periods. The strategy-level monthly returns are geometrically linked according to the Cariño method to determine the attribution effects over QTD and YTD. More information on methodology used is available upon request.

[7] Highest Fee Paying Tranche Net Attribution is calculated by allocating the Fund's management and incentive fee to individual positions and adjusting their gross performance accordingly. The Fund's highest fee-paying management fee is first distributed pro-rata to each position according to its proportionate share of total long market value; and, position level profit & loss is then further adjusted by a derived ratio (the "Incentive Fee Ratio"), limited at +/- 20%. The Incentive Fee Ratio is calculated by taking the highest fee-paying net return in excess of the Fund level gross return and highest fee-paying management fee divided by the Fund level gross return excluding highest fee-paying management fee. The MTD, QTD and YTD net performance data are the aggregate of the Net Performance Attribution (of the individual strategies presented), calculated at the position level (and aggregated based on which respective strategy the individual positions are tagged to internally.) MTD, QTD and YTD net performance data are compounded monthly and not annualized for partial periods. The Incentive Fee Ratio has been utilized for the purpose of complying with regulatory requirements deemed applicable under Rule 206(4)-1 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940; however, because management fees, carried interest, fund-level expenses and other amounts that reduce fund-level performance are incurred at the fund level (rather than the strategy or investment level), such a subset of investment-level "net performance data" does not represent the actual returns experienced by any fund or investor in respect of the relevant investments, and should not be relied upon as such. For the avoidance of doubt, neither the calculation nor the presentation of any performance results herein has been approved or reviewed by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Additional details regarding Sculptor's performance calculation methodology will be provided upon request. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. Performance estimates are subject to revision.

[8] The Hedge Overlay strategy includes positions that are implemented for the sole purpose of hedging the portfolio and we do not consider it a separate asset class.

[9] Other includes, but is not limited to, Treasury Reinvestment and Portfolio Finance strategies. Other also includes gross performance attributable to Finance and Fund Expenses and certain fund level income, fees and expenses that are not allocated to strategies. The composition of Other has changed over time.

[10] Largest Contributors and Largest Detractors reflect the aggregate gross profit and loss of a position as a percentage of the Fund NAV during the relevant period (the "Measurement Period"), excluding the value of Special Investments. The positions reported may consist of exposure to multiple underlying issuers or securities and related hedges. The quarter-to-date (QTD) and year-to-date (YTD) profit and loss is compounded monthly and is not annualized for partial periods. Performance information is presented for positions that, in aggregate, most positively contributed to the Fund's return for the period, and an equal number of positions that most negatively contributed to the Fund's return for the period. These positions are selected from all of the Fund's holdings over the Measurement Period in a mathematical and objective manner by using the calculation methodology described above to show their relative impact on the Fund's overall performance; they are not included or excluded for any other reason. The inclusion of each position's respective strategy (e.g., "Fundamental Equities", "Corporate Credit", "Structured Credit", etc.) is for informational purposes only and is not a factor that is considered when selecting the positions to be presented. The positions identified do not represent all of the securities purchased, sold or recommended for the Fund for the Measurement Period. MTD, QTD and YTD net performance attribution (the "HFP Net") is calculated by allocating the Fund's management and incentive fee to individual positions and adjusting their gross performance accordingly. The Fund's highest fee-paying management fee is first distributed pro-rata to each position according to its proportionate share of total long market value; and, position level profit & loss is then further adjusted by a derived ratio (the "Incentive Fee Ratio"), limited at +/- 20%. The Incentive Fee Ratio is calculated by taking the highest fee-paying net return in excess of the Fund level gross return and highest fee-paying management fee divided by the Fund level gross return excluding highest fee-paying management fee. QTD and YTD HFP Net is compounded monthly and not annualized for partial periods. The Incentive Fee Ratio has been utilized for the purpose of complying with regulatory requirements deemed applicable under Rule 206(4)-1 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940; however, because management fees, carried interest, fund-level expenses and other amounts that reduce fund-level performance are incurred at the fund level (rather than the strategy or investment level), such a subset of investment-level "net performance data" does not represent the actual returns experienced by any fund or investor in respect of the relevant investments, and should not be relied upon as such. For the avoidance of doubt, neither the calculation nor the presentation of any performance results herein has been approved or reviewed by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Additional details regarding Sculptor's performance calculation methodology will be provided upon request. Effective November 30, 2020, Sculptor made the decision to exclude the Hedge Overlay strategy from this chart's constituents since Sculptor does not believe the Hedge Overlay is representative of (or corresponds to) any individual Fund position. Instead, the Hedge Overlay is treated and should be viewed as a portfolio hedging tool, and not as a position-level contributor or detractor to/from Fund performance. Special Investments and positions within Treasury Reinvest, a sub-strategy of Other strategy, are also excluded. Please contact our Client Partner Group for: i) additional information regarding the calculation methodology reflected above; ii) additional information regarding the above positions; or, iii) a complete list of all positions and their contribution to the overall performance of the Fund for the past 12 months. Lastly, this should be read in conjunction with the Fund's net performance information presented under the Sculptor Multi-Strategy 2.0% Management Fee Composite, as well as the "Fund Net Performance and Volatility" section.

[11] Long and Short Exposures are calculated by dividing long or short market value (excluding the value of Special Investments), as applicable, by the Fund NAV. Gross Exposure is the sum of the Long Exposure and the absolute value of the Short Exposure. Net Exposure is the sum of the Long and Short Exposures. Leverage adjustment assumptions are described in the endnotes below. The Long and Short Exposure of strategies invested through non-recourse financing subsidiaries reflects the long and short market value of the underlying investments and not the capital at risk value of the subsidiary.

Effective September 1, 2022, the following leverage assumptions are applied for U.S. and Europe Convertible Bond strategies, which are sub-strategies of Convertible/Derivative Arbitrage ("CDA"): U.S. Convertible Bond strategies with a delta greater than or equal to 95 assume a leverage ratio of 15:1, with a delta between 90 and 95 assume 8:1, with a delta between 80 and 90 assume 5:1 and with a delta below 80 assume 3:1. Europe Convertible Bond strategies with a delta greater than or equal to 80 assume a leverage ratio of 5:1 and with a delta below 80 assume 3:1. Mandatory Convertibles, a sub-strategy of CDA, assumes a leverage ratio of 10:1. For all periods prior to September 1, 2022, Mandatory Convertibles assumes a leverage ratio of 6:1. Prior to November 1, 2020, U.S. and Europe Convertible Bond strategies generally assume a leverage ratio of 3:1. For all periods, all other sub-strategies within CDA, excluding the aforesaid sub-strategies, generally assume a leverage ratio of 3:1. Portfolio Finance assumes a leverage ratio of 10:1. Share Class Long/Short, which is a sub-strategy of Fundamental Equities, assumes a leverage ratio of 3:1 for Asia, 10:1 for U.S. and 10:1 for Europe. Delta One Boxed strategies, which is a sub-strategy of Fundamental Equities, assumes a leverage ratio of 5:1. Synthetic Structured Credit, which is a sub-strategy of Structured Credit, assumes a leverage ratio of 5:1 for the U.S. and Europe. These leverage assumptions approximate the historic leverage in these sub-strategies.

[12] Largest Long Positions and Largest Short Positions represent the largest long and short positions in the Fund based on total exposure calculated by dividing the market value of each position by the Fund NAV. The positions reported may consist of exposure to multiple underlying issuers or securities and related hedges. Standalone indices, ETFs and futures hedges are not included. Amounts invested through non-recourse financing subsidiaries are reflected based on the market value of the underlying investments held by these entities, rather than capital at risk. The Largest Long and Largest Short Positions tables exclude Special Investments and any positions that Sculptor categorizes as "Other", which are not allocated to a particular strategy. Other is included in Position Concentration charts. Sculptor believes that excluding Special Investments and Other from the Largest Positions tables while including Other in Position Concentration provides the recipient with a more relevant reporting presentation of the data. Please refer to endnotes #1 and #9 for additional information regarding Special Investments (and their exclusion from this Report) and Other, respectively. Positions in the CDA and Merger Arbitrage strategies are included only if both the long market value and short market value within the same position are large enough, respectively, to be included in the Top 10 Largest Long Positions and Top 10 Largest Short Positions (Not applicable to Position Concentration). This calculation is different than the guideline described in the feeder fund offering documents, which generally provide that it is not expected that the unhedged exposure to the securities of any issuer will exceed a certain percentage (as defined in the feeder fund offering documents) of the sum of the total assets in the Fund at the time an investment is made. For example, this calculation may not reflect the fact that the position shown consists of exposure to multiple underlying issuers or securities.

[13] Net Equity Exposure represents the beta-adjusted and delta-adjusted net market value for Equity investments (including, without limitation, equities, equity options, warrants and rights), within the Fundamental Equities and Hedge Overlay strategies, as a percent of Fund NAV. Each investment's beta is calculated against its relevant benchmark as determined by Sculptor in good faith. More information on benchmarks used is available upon request.

[14] Gamma represents the change in dollar delta of options given 1% move in underlying price. Gamma % NAV is calculated by dividing Gamma by the Fund NAV.

[15] Risk Score represents the percentile rank of the current month's scenario profit and loss ("Scenario PL") as a percent of Fund NAV observation relative to the 10 years prior to the current month. Scenario PL is one of many internal risk barometers, where every security is repriced according to the following, instantaneous assumptions: -10% local equity market shock, +50% credit spread widening, -15% distressed credit price shock, -10% commodity price shock, and +3% trade-weighted US Dollar shock. In addition, a +10% relative volatility and a correlation shock is applied. Please note that Scenario PL is used as a barometer of a fund's risk relative to its own history, not a forecast of expected/anticipated fund losses during a particular stress scenario. The absolute number is less relevant than its percentile or range across the historical spectrum. Each investment's Scenario PL is calculated based on its investment type classification.

[16] 1m Liquidity represents the percentage of the Fund's long market value that Sculptor Capital believes could be liquidated within one month under normal market conditions. For each equity position, this generally assumes that the Fund can sell 10% of the 20-day average daily trading volume per day. For each fixed-income position, this assumes that the Fund can sell 0.25% (25 basis points) of the outstanding notional amount per day. This also assumes zero 1-month liquidity for all restricted securities and for securities for which information is not available to allow liquidity to be determined. For purposes of this calculation, the market value of options is delta adjusted. Special Investments are excluded from this calculation. The current 3m Liquidity is 87%.

[17] Theta 1m represents the profit or loss for 30 days of option decay as a % of Fund NAV.

[18] Vega represents the profit or loss for a +1 volatility point move in option implied volatility as a % of Fund NAV.

[19] Represents the delta-adjusted net market value as a % of Fund NAV.

[20] Breakdown classifications reflect Sculptor's views and are based on internal sources.

[21] Other generally includes, without limitation, investment types that comprise less than 0.5% of the Fund Adj NAV.

[22] Other includes, without limitation, sovereign, municipal, multi-sector indices, currencies and sectors that comprise less than 0.5% of the Fund NAV.

[23] Other includes, without limitation, multi-region indices and regions that comprise less than 0.5% of the Fund NAV.

[24] 1y Range represents the percentile rank of the current month's observation within the last 12 observations at the end of each month in the trailing 1-year period.

[25] Please see endnote 1 above for important information and methodologies regarding the Multi-Strategy Composite construction for the period from April 1, 1994 through present. The Highest Fee Paying Composite (2.0% Management Fee Investors) performance history is calculated by (i) assuming a subscription of $1 million on April 1, 1994 (with no subsequent redemptions or additional subscriptions); (ii) imputing a management fee of 2.0%, assessed quarterly in advance but charged monthly for purposes of calculation, and an incentive allocation of 20%, assessed annually at year-end and without application of any hurdle; and, (iii) excludes the total return, incentive allocation, and management fees attributable to Special Investments to compute a net return for each month and on an annualized basis, both of which are expressed as a percentage (collectively, the "Sculptor Multi-Strategy 2.0% Management Fee Composite" or "Highest Fee Paying Composite"). The Highest Fee Paying Composite includes initial public offering investments, which are not allocated to all investors in the Feeder Funds. Investors allocated Special Investments and/or not allocated initial public offering investments may experience materially different returns. A 2.0% management fee is currently the highest management fee charged to investors in the Feeder Funds (although a higher fee class was offered in the past). Certain investors in the Feeder Funds are subject to a lower management fee and/or a different incentive allocation structure. The Highest Fee Paying Composite excludes realized and unrealized gains and losses attributable to currency hedging ("Currency Feeder F/X Hedging") specific to investors in Feeder Fund tranches denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar ("Non-USD Tranches") beginning in August 2012, the inception of the Non-USD Tranches, and for subsequent periods. An investor in a Non-USD Tranche may experience materially different returns, as there can be no assurance that Currency Feeder F/X Hedging will eliminate all or any of the currency risk associated with investing in a Non-USD Tranche. Sculptor Master Fund implements a global multi-strategy investment program that provides the Investment Manager significant discretion to vary sector, geographic and strategy exposures on an ongoing basis. Accordingly, portfolio composition varies from period to period and prospective investors should not assume that exposures for any period are indicative of exposures for any other period. Please refer to the offering materials for the Feeder Funds for a description of the various strategies in which Sculptor Master Fund may invest. Historical capital attribution for Sculptor Master Fund is available from the Investment Manager upon request. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. There can be no assurance that Sculptor Master Fund will achieve its performance objectives or avoid substantial losses. A decision to invest in a Feeder Fund of Sculptor Master Fund should not be based on or influenced by this performance presentation. Additionally, the returns shown are hypothetical in nature and do not represent the actual returns of any particular fund or any investor and as a result, there are inherent risks with respect to hypothetical performance. Prospective investors should not place undue reliance on any such hypothetical information.
